BOROUGH COUNCIL

Issue 36 Spring 2025

Welcome

To the spring edition of Your Chesterfield

Many of you may be aware that some big changes are in store for local councils across the country as part of the government's plans for devolution and local government reorganisation.

That includes areas like Derbyshire which is known as a 'two-tier system' of local government – meaning that some of the council services you receive are delivered by the county council, while others are delivered by a local district or borough council, like Chesterfield Borough Council.

Derbyshire is not within the first wave of areas to press ahead with reorganisation and the county council elections will go ahead in May. But the government still expects areas to submit proposals for reorganisation by 21 March 2025, with more detailed plans being developed by November 2025.

This is a complex issue, and I've been taking part in discussions with the leaders of all district and borough councils and Derby City Council to develop a proposal that is in the best interests of residents and businesses. We also want to ensure Derbyshire's boundaries remain intact and that the new councils are the right size to deliver the best possible services.

Derbyshire County Council's leader was invited to these discussions - he chose not to attend but we are still open to discussing the proposals with him.

The options we are exploring would involve the creation of two new unitary councils which would cover the entire county and city, each with a population of around 500,000 - we think this would strike the right balance between being financially stable and retaining the strong local connections we already have with our communities.

To guide our final decision, our proposals will be subject to extensive consultation with residents, businesses, our workforce, partner public bodies, and the voluntary sector; ensuring all voices are captured and heard collectively.

While discussions continue, please be reassured that it is business as usual and our main priority is to deliver the day-to-day services to the high standards you rightfully expect, and that we continue our work to invest in the future of our people and places.

This edition of Your Chesterfield puts a spotlight on just some of the local work and investment that is progressing - from the exciting major regeneration schemes in Chesterfield town centre and the transformation of our historic theatre and museum, to investing in the skills our young people need for a great career, and to our ongoing commitment of providing affordable and decent homes to people across the borough. The responsibility to our community is clear throughout our work.

I hope you enjoy reading the updates within this magazine – and we hope to see many of you joining us for our first big event of the year; the hugely popular 1940s Market on 10 April (see the opposite page for all the details).

Councillor Tricia Gilby, Leader of the council

Chesterfield 1940s market

THURSDAY
10 APRIL
10am to 4pm

The popular 1940s Market is returning to Chesterfield this spring – bringing a range of free entertainment to the town centre for the whole family to enjoy once again.

The action-packed market will be returning on Thursday 10 April, transporting the town centre back to the 1940s with a variety of music, street performances and period dress on offer.

With lots of fantastic entertainment set to return, the event will take place during the Easter school holidays and will run alongside the popular weekly flea market.

More information about the event plans and entertainment will be available on our website and social media channels – pop online for the latest programme information.

Councillor Kate Sarvent, cabinet member for town centres and visitor economy, said:

“The 1940s Market is enjoyed by residents and visitors alike. There are not too many places you can go to see a range of free street entertainment like we have on offer here.

“We encourage you to put the date in your diary and be sure to join us on the day!”

Revitalising the Heart of Chesterfield

Revitalising Chesterfield Market

As the first phase of our multi-million pound regeneration of Chesterfield town centre nears completion, we take a look at our market's heritage and update you on how the works are progressing.

The market has been an essential part of Chesterfield for over 800 years – we're proud of our town's market history and want to celebrate and protect it for years to come.

Councillor Kate Sarvent, cabinet member for town centres and visitor economy, said: "The exciting improvements to the top half of Market Place are taking shape – with reconditioned cobbles and paving, new street furniture and of course the construction of the new stalls which, once complete, will transform the look and feel of the square, and provide fantastic new facilities for traders.

"There has been a small delay to the completion of this first phase, which is frustrating, but not uncommon for schemes of this size. This is due to issues with the supply of materials, and some hold ups due to the freezing and snowy weather, but it's also because each stall is a bespoke construction which is tailor-made to the space it sits in.

"Rest assured, we are committed to getting this right, and making sure it meets the high standards we want for our town centre, and our traders and shoppers."

"The exciting improvements to the top half of Market Place are taking shape – with reconditioned cobbles and paving, new street furniture and of course the construction of the new stalls"

Councillor Kate Sarvent, cabinet member for town
centres and visitor economy

The Market moved to the present site during the 12th century. Since then, it has been crucial for the local economy but up until the mid-twentieth century it was also the focal point for community gatherings and our current plans to refurbish the area seek to build on this history by supporting both the traditional market offer and providing an enhanced space for events, festivals and community gatherings.

You can see in the Market Place that we've used new paving to improve the surface for visitors but also to create a new central space with a design inspired by the Market Hall tiles – allowing us to host more events and entertainment which will help create a buzz throughout the market.

In 1853 a public water pump was installed in Chesterfield Market Place – we're making sure this feature takes pride of place in the centre of the market once more. With seating and new paving around the pump, it will serve as a fantastic place to meet friends and family to explore the town.

Trading on Chesterfield Market

You might have spotted the new Chesterfield Markets logo - it will feature on the canopies and will be used help raise the profile of our town.

Whilst a lot of focus has been on the physical improvements we're making, we know that there is also more we can do to promote the market and our traders.

This is just the first step and as works complete we will be doing much more both to attract new traders and support existing traders.

Interested in joining us on this journey as trader? Stalls start from just £12.10. You can find out more about trading on Chesterfield Market by visiting:

Enhancing Stephenson Memorial Hall

Over the last few months, major regeneration work to transform Stephenson Memorial Hall has been rapidly progressing.

The multi-million pound project will create an exciting new heritage and performing arts venue with an enhanced theatre, expanded museum, a café bar and education and community facilities.

In the auditorium the backstage steelwork, which will provide performances with modern equipment, has been installed and the new stage has been constructed.

At the back of the building the new extension, which will provide better facilities for performers, is almost complete, with all brickwork now in place and a new roof being installed.

In the new museum spaces, which will be on the top floor of the building, works have been focussed on insulating the roof and dividing the spaces. When complete it will include a high-specification gallery which will allow us to exhibit items on loan from other museums.

The new entrance to the building has been opened, with stairs and lift access, to ensure all visitors can access every part of the building. This new entrance is actually the original building entrance and sits underneath the tower on Corporation Street.

Above Corporation Street work on the new link gallery extension has been progressing well. This new structure will add education and community spaces, but also serves as additional space for visitors during theatre intermissions.

Councillor Kate Sarvent, cabinet member for town centres and visitor economy, said: "This is an ambitious and exciting project that will help elevate our town by attracting more visitors and providing enhanced facilities for our residents.

"I'm excited for us to be able to welcome visitors back to the building next year. Visitors will see a real change and will have the opportunity to appreciate the many heritage details that we have worked hard to preserve and enhance."

The decorative circle balcony fronts in the auditorium, are being preserved and we're highlighting the building's hidden details – including the stunning stained glass windows which are being celebrated as a feature that visitors can enjoy.

The project also includes significant new additions like lifts to help improve accessibility and a new ventilation system to improve the comfort of theatre visitors.

The refurbishment of Stephenson Memorial Hall is funded through the Government's Levelling Up Fund with additional funding provided by Arts Council England.

You can find out more about the refurbishment of Stephenson Memorial Hall and watch a short video tour of the architect's design by visiting: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/stephenson-memorial-hall

Creating enhanced community facilities in Barrow Hill

Work to refurbish Barrow Hill Memorial Hall and create enhanced community and healthcare facilities has started on site.

Barrow Hill Community Trust is refurbishing its historic home to create a social space for the community and add new facilities that will enable local residents to access healthcare services.

With funding provided through the Staveley Town Deal and the Heritage Lottery Fund, the first phase of the ambitious project should be completed by March 2026.

Simon Redding at Barrow Hill Community Trust, said: "It is fantastic to get started on site and start to see our plans come together. This is a community building and will make a real difference in Barrow Hill, helping people to access the services they need at every stage of life but also ensuring that as a community we have a space that we can call our own and celebrate our achievements."

Plans for the memorial hall include classroom space, healthcare facilities and a new social space for the community to come together. The work will be carried out in phases, with some elements dependent on further external funding.

Ivan Fomin, Chair of the Staveley Town Deal, said: "The Trust have worked incredibly hard to bring this project to life and I want to thank them for all their hard work. This project has the ability to transform lives and supports our aim of ensuring that Staveley is a place where everyone can have the best start to their lives, stay, grow and ultimately achieve their potential."

Barrow Hill Memorial Hall is owned and managed by the Trustees of Barrow Hill Community Trust on behalf of the community.

The Trust has owned the Hall since 1924 when Charles Paxton Markham gave the Workmen's Hall at Barrow Hill to the community as a war memorial.

The refurbishment of Barrow Hill Memorial Hall is just one project that is being funded through the Staveley Town Deal. To find out more about the wider programme visit: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/staveley-town-deal

Construction Skills Hub launches degree level apprenticeship

The Construction Skills Hub has launched a new degree level apprenticeship programme to help people access the skills they need for a great career in Chesterfield.

At the Hub students will be able to undertake an apprenticeship and earn a degree in Construction Management, Quantity Surveying or Civil Engineering from the University of Derby.

The Construction Skills Hub, which is funded through the Staveley Town Deal, is run in partnership between Chesterfield Borough Council, Chesterfield College and the University of Derby.

Currently more than 40 students are studying on the site earning trade-based qualifications in things like groundworks, brickwork, joinery and more through Chesterfield College.

Councillor Tricia Gilby, Leader of Chesterfield Borough Council and Vice Chair of the Staveley Town Deal Board, said: "It is fantastic that these qualification can now be delivered through the Construction Skills Hub - for our economy to grow we need to build, and I know this facility will help create the next generation of skilled construction workers.

"Apprenticeships offer a great opportunity for anyone to develop their skills whilst also earning, and it was important that through the Construction Skills Hub we can support apprenticeships that offer higher level skills.

"I look forward to welcoming the new students to the site when they begin their studies in September."

Protecting essential services

Like local authorities across the country, we continue to face significant pressures on our budgets, due to a variety of factors outside of our control.

“our aim is to continue to do all we can to protect the essential services that local people rely on, while remaining on a stable financial footing.”

Councillor
Amanda Sejeant,
deputy leader

Last month the council approved plans to achieve a balanced budget for the coming financial year, while meeting our commitment to protect essential services for the most vulnerable residents. We are also continuing to invest in the future of our borough.

We've been working hard to meet these ongoing budget challenges and have successfully implemented the budget savings plans which we set out last year. We had to take some difficult decisions, and deliver some services differently, but this action has allowed us to keep the council on a sound financial footing.

We've also made the most of the opportunities in front of us – for example, looking at how we can make the best use of our buildings to help support our budget strategy.

This has included the sale of Revenues House and the move of our customer services centre into the Town Hall, alongside other public services. We've also let out commercial space in The Healthy Living Centre in Staveley – creating new café facilities for local people, providing a new trading base for a local business, and contributing to the council's budget strategy.

Councillor Amanda Serjeant, deputy leader and cabinet member for finance and asset management, said: “Over recent years we've been open and honest with our communities about the ongoing pressures we, like all councils, are facing – and we had to take some really difficult decisions.

“But I'm pleased to say that these decisions were not taken in vain and the successful implementation of the comprehensive savings plan, running alongside our budget strategy, have allowed us to set a balanced budget for the 2025 / 26 financial year.

“We thank our communities for their part in helping us achieve this and we will continue to work with local people, as we know that further savings measures are likely to be needed to achieve similarly balanced budget positions in future financial years.”

Your new residents' parking permit

You should have received your new residents' parking permit with your Council Tax bill. Please be aware that a small charge now applies when using the pass, but it still entitles residents to cheaper parking:

£1 before 10am from Monday to Saturday

£2 after 3pm from Monday to Saturday

All-day parking for £2 on Sundays and Bank Holidays

The pass is valid from 1 April 2025 to 31 March 2026 and should be displayed with a valid ticket, or payment via the council's pay by phone provider, RingGo. It covers most of our town centre surface car parks. Find out more: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/parking-permit

Small rise in Council Tax

The budget plan includes a small rise in the amount of Council Tax that households pay for our services. This is an extra £3.80 a year (7 pence a week) for people living in Band A homes, and £5.70 a year (11 pence a week) for Band D households.

Councillor Amanda Serjeant said: "Increasing Council Tax, even by a relatively small amount, is not a decision we ever take lightly."

"However, in doing so our aim is to continue to do all we can to protect the essential services that local people rely on, while remaining on a stable financial footing despite an incredibly difficult economic climate."

The council will continue to provide financial support for those on lower incomes. Check if you're eligible for a discount on your Council Tax bill: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/council-tax

We collect Council Tax on behalf of a number of local organisations. But did you know that only around 9 per cent of your bill goes towards the cost of providing the services you receive?

Setting the standard for decarbonisation

Refurbishment of a housing block will set the standard for decarbonising buildings in Chesterfield – whilst helping to reduce carbon emissions by up to 80 per cent.

“The decarbonisation project will help us to reduce carbon emissions but it will also help improve the quality of life for our tenants.”

Councillor Martin Stone, cabinet member for climate change, planning and environment

Brocklehurst Court in Brampton is being upgraded into a more sustainable and energy-efficient building through a major decarbonisation project.

The project will see the existing gas central heating system and hot water boilers being removed at our independent living scheme, and replaced with commercial air source heat pumps.

To further enhance energy efficiency, solar panels are being installed on the roof which will help generate electricity to power the new air source heat pumps.

Each flat will have a modern Heat Interface Unit installed which will give residents greater control over their heating and hot water – improving both comfort, and energy efficiency.

To enhance efficiency and reduce reliance on the grid, the project will incorporate battery storage to help ensure that the solar panels can be used efficiently with renewable energy being used, even when it is not being generated.

Councillor Martin Stone, cabinet member for climate change, planning and environment, said: “This project represents a significant step in our commitment to becoming a carbon neutral organisation and I’m really pleased to see that works have started and are progressing well at Brocklehurst Court.

“The energy used to heat and power buildings is one of the largest sources of emissions in Chesterfield and this project demonstrates the kinds of upgrades that can be carried out on buildings across the borough to reduce emissions and improve energy efficiency.

“The decarbonisation project will help us to reduce carbon emissions but it will also help improve the quality of life for our tenants.”

We are committed to becoming a carbon neutral organisation by 2030 and supporting our communities to become carbon neutral by 2050.

Supporting a sustainable swap shop

Friends of Dunston School have received funding through our Community Grants Fund to create a new swap shop which will help parents to save money and encourages the re-use of items that might have been thrown away.

The community-led initiative includes the installation of a new outdoor shed and storage facilities where they can securely keep items like school uniforms, books, food and other essential items. This will be open every school day for parents to access.

It follows on from a regular pop-up uniform and book stall that has proved to be very popular over the last few years.

By encouraging the re-use of items, it not only helps parents to save money on the essentials it also improves sustainability because less new items are needed.

This is just one of several sustainable initiatives that is being supported through our Community Grants Fund. To find out more about the fund visit: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/community-grants-fund

Get involved, have a voice

Looking to get involved in something new in 2025?

We're on the lookout for more tenants to join us and help shape our housing services!

There are lots of opportunities for you to get involved - from speaking to our team at one of our mobile office visits, to joining one of our established groups, there are a number of different ways to get your voice heard and have your say about what matters to you most.

We offer a menu of engagement opportunities at different times of the day, both in person and online, so you can get involved at a time that suits you.

We've also just launched our 'mystery shopper' initiative, which will give you the chance to put our services to the test.

Want to know more and get involved? You can find out more about the opportunities available at: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/get-involved or by contacting the tenant engagement team by email at: tenantengagement@chesterfield.gov.uk. # You said, we did

Tenants have already been making a great contribution to improving our services. Here are some of the actions that have already been taken as a direct result of tenant engagement.

We did

We worked with tenants to review these and add in more images and easy to understand information

You said

The rent arrears letters are not easy to understand

You said

The information on the housing section of the website is full of text and you can't find anything

We did

We worked with tenants to review the content and the layout of the website, including introducing more videos and visual reports

You said

The communal cleaning service should be reviewed

We did

We reviewed the cleaning activities, have increased monitoring of the service and revised the information available to tenants

You said

You wanted more information about fire safety and what you as a tenant can do

We did

We've created a series of new videos which set out key fire safety information. We've also written to all tenants living in blocks of flats with information about the new Riskhub platform, to help keep you safe in your home - find out more on page 17.

You said

Tenants need accessible information on how the housing service is performing

We did

New report created 'for tenants, by tenants' sharing details of how the housing service is performing in areas identified as important to tenants

Could you be a community surveyor?

Want to help look after your neighbourhood and help improve the local community?

We're joining forces with Keep Britain Tidy to offer free training to tenants and leaseholders who want to be the eyes and ears on our estates.

Once trained, our willing volunteers will help us check for things such as the quality of grass and hedge cutting in the area, as well as reporting on the level of dog fouling, littering, and graffiti that they may spot in the area.

All findings will be reported back to our housing team so that necessary steps can be taken to improve the look of our estates and ensure that they are to the standard our tenants expect.

The next training session with Keep Britain Tidy will take place on Wednesday 2 April. It is a full day course that combines classroom and practical sessions to get you up to speed. After the course, you will receive a certificate from Keep Britain Tidy and officially become a community surveyor.

You'll then be able to join other community surveyors each month and inspect different estates across our borough and report back to our teams on your findings.

Keep up to date on fire safety in blocks of flats

To reduce the risk of fire in the communal areas, we carry out regular fire risk assessments on the blocks of flats and independent living schemes that we own across the borough.

The assessments are carried out in the communal areas, such as entrances, stairwells and corridors, and includes the individual flat entrance doors. This allows us to identify any work that needs to be carried out to make sure that our blocks are as safe as possible for you and your visitors in case of fire.

It's also important that you can easily access all the information on the fire safety for your block of flats, and we have recently launched an online system called the Riskhub Resident Hub.

By logging in to the system, all tenants living in flats, or an independent living scheme, can use the system to find out:

What to do in case of a fire

Who to contact if they have concerns

What safety measures are in place

We have contacted all tenants and leaseholders directly with login details for the system, but if you have any questions please email fire.safety@chesterfield.gov.uk.

Taking action to enhance housing services

Following a recent inspection of our housing services, that saw us achieve the second highest positive rating possible, we've now set out a Regulator of Social Housing and Tenant Satisfaction Action Plan that will help us to further improve the quality of housing for our tenants.

“Significant progress has already been made to improve our services and based on the feedback from the regulator, we have developed the action plan that sets out a range of continuous improvement activities for us.

“We look forward to working with the regulator on our improvement journey, and we will continue to work directly with you, our tenants, keeping you updated and involved throughout.”

Councillor Jean Innes, cabinet member for housing.

The action plan comes after we received a grade of C2 from the Regulator of Social Housing. The grade means that while there are some areas for improvement, overall, there is a positive level of 'assurance' that we are achieving the consumer standards set by the regulator.

A number of significant changes and improvements have already been made to help enhance our services, including:

- The reshape of housing management and statutory housing functions, which resulted in more frontline housing management staff and more tenant engagement opportunities.
- Implementation of a robust monitoring regime for landlord compliance and safety to ensure continuing excellent performance.
- The establishment of a Housing Advisory Board, which brings together tenants, elected members and senior officers to drive performance improvements with a focus on tenant satisfaction, complaints and compliance.

The action plan highlights the progress and next steps, and can be viewed in full at: www.chesterfield.gov.uk/housing-action-plan

Councillor Jean Innes, cabinet member for housing, said: “As a social housing provider, ensuring that our services meet the needs of our tenants is our top priority. The C2 grade recognises that we are meeting the Regulators' Consumer Standards in many areas, but the report did identify some areas for improvement to make sure that we are offering the best possible services for our tenants.”

New build homes taking shape

Tenants are settling into their new-build council homes on Ringwood Avenue in Middlecroft - and a further two two-bedroom bungalows at Court Place are also now complete, ready to welcome tenants.

Each of the completed properties has been designed to achieve an A-rated EPC (energy performance certificate) and fitted with an air source heat pump, which will supply hot water and heat the homes via underfloor heating – without the need for a gas boiler.

Solar panels have also been installed and are designed to generate more energy than the properties are expected to use.

The bungalows all have level access and have also been designed so that lifts and ceiling hoists can be installed in the future. This means that the homes can remain fully accessible for tenants if their housing needs change – allowing them to remain living independently for longer.

Councillor Jean Innes, cabinet member for housing, said: “We’re really pleased to see these new homes being completed, and welcoming tenants to enjoy their new homes.

“When planning for these new build homes, we want to ensure that we can provide homes that meet the needs of our tenants both now and in the future – and provide homes for life. That’s why we’ve designed these bungalows in a way that adaptations, such as installing lifts and hoists, can be installed easily should they be needed in the future – allowing people to live independently in their homes for longer.”

Councillor Tricia Gilby and Councillor Jean Innes visited the site recently to see how the new homes were progressing

Unlock the past with Museum on the Move

We've been hosting museum exhibitions across the borough over the last few months with interactive activities and events for families – we've got a fantastic schedule of events planned for 2025.

Our Extraordinary Women exhibition is run in partnership with Chesterfield College, Derbyshire LGBT+ and Kakou. Hosted at West Studios the exhibition tells the amazing stories of local women and features artworks created by Chesterfield College students. It is open until Sunday 27 March.

In April we're hosting an exhibition about life during the Tudor period at Hasland Village Hall with replica Tudor objects to get hands on with, mysterious items and a selection of fun activities. The exhibition will be run from 5 April until 19 April and will be open from 10am to 2pm on Tuesday to Friday and 10am to 4pm on Saturdays.

A Viking extravaganza will be hosted at Duckmanton Primary School in June with handling objects and fun activities including weaving, rune writing and the opportunity to create your own Viking shield.

The final exhibition will focus on life in Medieval Chesterfield (or Cesterfield) with fun Medieval activities, games and a traditional market stall. It will be hosted at Mary Swanwick School from July to August.

Councillor Kate Sarvent, cabinet member for town centres and visitor economy, said: "I know lots of people have been enjoying the exhibitions we've hosted through this project but there is still lots of time to join in and discover our history through these fun events. These are all family friendly events, with lots for young ones to do and are free to attend."

Museum on the Move is funded by Arts Council England and aims to ensure that local residents can connect with history and culture whilst Stephenson Memorial Hall is closed for refurbishment (pages 6 to 7).

Local Plan consultation

We'd like to hear your views on what you think ought to be in a new Chesterfield Local Plan.

The Local Plan is a crucial part of the planning process and helps ensure that we can meet our climate change commitments. It currently sets out how many homes and commercial properties will be built, and where, by setting this out in a Local Plan it aims to ensure that new development is sustainable without impacting upon people's health and wellbeing or the environment.

The existing plan sets out how and where development should happen over the next ten years and identifies how infrastructure including school places, GP surgeries, leisure facilities, roads, and green spaces can be provided to meet the needs of both of existing and new residents. The plan also includes key policies which are used when deciding on planning applications.

We are required to review our Local Plan at least every five years to ensure that is appropriate and effective. The review process also allows us to incorporate changes to national planning policy including changes to our housing targets that have been introduced since the plan was drawn up in 2020.

Councillor Martin Stone, cabinet member for climate change, planning and the environment, said: "The Local Plan forms the basis of all decisions made about planning applications in the borough and is critical to helping us to limit the impact of climate change and achieve our target of becoming a carbon neutral borough by 2050.

"It is important that residents, businesses, and community organisations can comment on the plan and help guide development in the borough. It is not just about housing; it is about ensuring that we can create sustainable communities that provide the facilities residents need and that we provide space for nature to thrive."

Your comments will help develop a new draft Local Plan which will be subjected to further public scrutiny before it is introduced.

We are also asking people who own land or premises to submit suggestions for sites with the potential for new land uses and development.

The consultation on the Local Plan Review opens on 31 March and will close on Friday 11 April. You can find out more and share your views by visiting:

Creating new public art in Chesterfield

Last year we launched Animate Chesterfield a public art programme that will create new artworks and activities for visitors and residents to enjoy.

Our Artist in Residence, Lucie Maycock is now working on a new series of artworks that will be unveiled in the Pavements shopping centre at the end of March. She held workshops from September to December where anyone could go and unleash their creative spirit, and these sessions have inspired this project.

In December illustrator Sally Anderson created a unique festival trail featuring designs on shop windows that more than 500 people took part in.

And there are still lots of projects set to happen this year.

We're working with students at the University of Derby to create a new outdoor exhibition structure that will initially feature art created by Junction Arts Next Gen artists before becoming available for the wider community to use.

A Sense of Chesterfield is a new heritage arts trail that we are working to develop with local groups, it will help visitors explore the town and learn about our history.

A new town centre mural will be created later this year and we're currently looking at options for the theme of the project.

Coralie Turpin is also working to create a new sculpture and embed her designs in the regeneration of Staveley town centre.

Animate Chesterfield is funded through planning agreements as part of the council's percent for art scheme and delivered by Beam, a leading cultural development organisation.

We'll be sharing more details about Animate Chesterfield throughout the year. You can find out more by visiting

Careers inspiration for the next generation

A series of free events have been helping young people and their parents to understand more about the options available to them after completing their GCSEs.

Apprenticeship and Technical Education events have been held across the borough and bring together young people, parents, local businesses and current apprentices to highlight the different opportunities available in key local sectors.

Local engineering firm MSE Hiller have supported the events, and this has helped them connect with and employ three new potential employees.

After meeting at the event two students undertook work experience placements and have gone on to study related subjects at college and a third was hired as Level 3 Mechanical Engineering Apprentice.

Tom, explained: "I attended this event after deciding that I wanted to reskill into the engineering industry where I could learn new skills and find a career that brought me personal fulfilment. I have been working with the company for six months now and I am enjoying the role. The work is challenging but due to the advice and support from my colleagues, mentors and management, I am encouraged to expand my skill set and become more confident in my role."

The Apprenticeship and Technical Education events focus on careers in construction, engineering and manufacturing and health and social care, as these are all sectors where there are lots of local opportunities.

All events are run in partnership with local businesses along with East Midlands Combined County Authority Careers Hub and the Department for Education's ASK programme.

Councillor Tricia Gilby, leader and cabinet member for economic growth, said: "These events highlight why working in partnership with businesses is vital to helping young people understand the options available to them. Apprenticeships can serve as a great starting point for highly skilled careers and maximising opportunities like this will help to grow our local economy.

"I'd encourage young people and their families to come along to these events because they can really help people to realise their potential."

Our next free Apprenticeship and Technical Education Event will be held at Chesterfield Football Club on Wednesday 21 May from 6pm. You can find more information about the event by visiting:
